Telling Way.

By Telegram to THE SENTINEL.

NEW YORK, May 27.—The Sun publishes a communication from Miss Elizabeth Cleveland, sister of President Cleveland, in reply to Rev. Dr. Howard Crosby, on the question of total abstinence. Miss Cleveland commences by quoting the following from Dr. Crosby: "I do not wonder that excellent women, whose husbands or sons have become drinkers, should advocate total abstinence for every one. We have heard a woman, whose boy had cut his finger off with a knife, wish that there were no knives in the world, and if she could have her way she would have them all destroyed forthwith. It is natural, and a woman's cry on such an occasion excites our tenderest sympathy, but who will count that an argument?"

Miss Cleveland then says: "The above paragraph, from a calm view of Dr. Nelson, by the Rev. Howard Crosby, in the Exchange of March 17th, has most pertinaciously haunted me ever since the perusal of the article last evening. That this, above any other paragraph, should most impress itself upon the impressionable mind of one emotional woman in particular or of woman as an emotional creature in general, will surprise no man. It is, as the doctor says, 'natural' and I am certain that multitudes of women besides myself are to-day smarting under these calm words, against the imputation of which every fibre of the woman nature rises up in revolt. 'The male animal is very fierce, the female of all genera is very gentle comparatively and in general uncomitative, but the same science which tells us this tells us also that the mother among all beasts, in defense of her young, is the fiercest of all living creatures.'

The lioness under ordinary circumstances is quite easy of conquest but the lioness robbed of her whelp no man or beast cares to encounter, both these phases of the female nature are undeniably natural. They belong, as Bishop Butler said of certain so-called supernatural phenomena, to the natural, of which there are two continua—the one ordinary, the other not supernatural, but still less superhuman, but extraordinary. 'You see, Mrs. Foster, that this mad dog you talk about is to be put by a calm view of the thing, as it is, into the same category with catfish. You have no more right to cry out against this unlovely because it may meet your children on their way to school and may bite one or two of them, than you have to cry out against the manufacture and sale of knives, because your boy cut himself once. The perfectly clear thing is, if you only had broad enough to see it, that the manufacture by fermentation, not distillation, of the mad dog—not very mad but only some mad—ought to go on, and that one mad dog of this good kind for every one thousand people, ought to be protected by law from the bullets of hydrophobia hater. This calm view of the evil, which, because of some, in fact, several cases of hydrophobia among us, has come to be called by unthinking people a mad dog, is proven by our current testimony, science, scholarship, sound philosophy, and, above all, rightly read scripture to be a good creature of God. The calmly christian thing for you to do on such an occasion, is not to go up and down, crying, but stay at home and teach your little boys and big boys how a little mad dog's bite is good for them, but a big mad dog's bite is very bad for them. You ought, if you would only do the thing you ought instead of the thing you like, to mix up a little wine and water for your little boys at dinner, so that they may early learn the difference between true temperance and this miserable parody of true temperance called 'total abstinence' and may be prepared to make a maddy protest against drunkenness when he should be grown up. It is simply silly; it is, while we feel the tenderest sympathy for your sorrow, we must say it. It is silly for you to refuse to see that knives and dogs are equally dangerous. It is as ridiculous for you to demand that all alcohol shall be banished from the beverages of mankind, because this fiery liquor is burning out the manhood, in more ways than by its consumption of the world, as it would be for you to demand that all the wells should be dried up, because men lose their lives by drowning. Alcohol and water are exactly analogous if you could but see it. You foolish woman! Your cry is an argument. It is better you should stop your crying." Dr. Crosby, we cannot, try we ever so hard, we cannot defy orderly nature. God has made us a crying genus. We cannot understand how knives and mad dogs are just alike. We cannot understand why a mad dog should not be killed. We cannot help crying if only one to every ten thousand human beings is let loose in our streets. These things are too high for us; we cannot find them out. It is not our blame, it is our nature, and we dare to say that through the pure and unadorned nature of the human mother, God's argument against the use of alcohol, except as a medicine, is given to the world to-day.

When the young queen of Austria pressed on every hand by the ruthless oppression of the great Prussian king, fled into Hungary, and with her infant in her arms and her royal crown upon her head, appealed for the protection of her kingdom to her loyal subjects there. Those stalwart Hungarian nobles rose in a mass, and, laying their rough hands on the sword at their sides, swore in a shout, whose heroic ring echoes down the years: 'Mortem pro rege nostro Maria Theresia.' And how they did die all the world knows. It is not for rhetorical effect, still less for the excitation of the tenderest sympathy, that I revert to this well known historical incident. It is that I may call attention to the argument in the cry of those men, for I suppose a man's cry may be counted as an argument. I wish to beg you to notice those words, 'rege nostro.' That expression of those Hungarian nobles, our king, Maria Theresia instead of our Queen Maria. Theresia has been interpreted to represent an idea in their minds to suit the mind of the interpreter, of woman's rights. Speakers have made them an acknowledgement on the part of those most masculine men, that here was a woman, who was more man than any one of them, or all together; more able to command them by having more than that was kindly in her; hence 'pro rege nostro,' instead of 'pro regina nostro,' but whether my idea of this be fanciful or not, whether it be calm and logical, whether it be good criticism, I dare not affirm. Dr. Crosby knows. But I dare affirm that the American mother to-day being pressed on every side by the aggression of King Alcohol, contrasts American man—the infant in her arms her only sceptre, the motherhood on her brow her only crown—and cries to them for the protection of her kingdom. The home carries in her cry an argument, and I dare affirm, for thank God, it is a spectacle which all may witness, that stalwart warriors, pulling from their scabbards trusty swords, admit that cry to be an argument by their answering shout: 'We will fight for our king; for we all have a king, even doctors. There is a majesty of right, a royalty of truth, which in manifold forms claims our intelligence and a grace its claim. God sees in the fearful cry of the bruised and baffled mother, sister and wife his own argument for the utter extinction of intoxicating beverages, the suppression, root and branch, of the liquor traffic. And in that cry he makes his argument to men, a chancellor's philosophy, grasping in its mighty sapience into and scenes which we poor women can not even name, has as yet failed to apprehend that the chemistry of heaven which distills from a christian mother's tear the first drop of that mighty gathering storm, whose full and final outbreak shall sweep away for ever all refugees of lies, which, sowers of insurrection, is the bulwark of the liquor traffic. The children of Israel signal by reason of bondage, and their cry came up unto God, and God heard their groaning, and God remembered his covenant, and God looked upon the children of Israel and had respect unto them."

"ELIZABETH CLEVELAND."

Mr. J. B. Mumell has now an exhibition at the Fleming house a surgical royal operating chair, and requests all dentists and practicing surgeons to call and examine it.

NOBLE WOMEN.

The Workers for Christian Temperance Inaugurate the State Assembly.

Last night the Berry street M. E. church was crowded to the doors, the occasion being the opening of the twelfth annual convention of the Women's Christian Temperance Union of Indiana. One hundred and twenty-five delegates were present from all parts of the state and many more are expected to arrive to-day.

The church was handsomely decorated with flowering plants and Mrs. M. L. Wells, the president of the state union, presided. Mrs. Pool presided at the organ and a large choir led the musical part of the program.

The devotional exercises were led by Miss Lodie Reed, of Indianapolis, and the divine blessing was invoked by Rev. Dr. Moffat. A song by the quartet followed.

The address of welcome on behalf of the State W. C. T. U. city, churches and people, followed, being delivered by Mrs. Nora Gause, who said: Ninety-one years ago Anthony Wayne selected this place as his headquarters. The temperance women of Indiana now take it as their stronghold for a week." Her welcoming address was clothed in beautiful diction and her words emphatic. "Clear the track all who stand for anything but the great cause of Christianity and temperance. There is every effort to antagonize the temperance work. Only bring in new workers." A most eloquent appeal for the wife and mother was made. "Our work will live like unto immortal souls."

The lady's eulogy of the white ribbon army was: "As self-sacrificing people, as a nation, I welcome you." After her close thunders of applause resounded, and several handsome bouquets were handed the beloved president of the local union.

Mrs. Leavitt, of Vernon, Ind., then paid a noble and fine tribute to Mrs. Gause, speaking of the hearty way in which our ladies welcomed the visiting delegates to our city. Her response was well chosen and most entertaining. Her plea to the voters was most decided, and the audience was enthusiastic from first to last. A part of her address was clothed in practical form. She spoke of the liquor trade as the tyrant of this country whose black mocking ensign speaks all over the country. Pale women and children cowered in fear of the despot Rum, but what cared he. Victims daily fall under his chariot wheels, and the only weapon of the women of this country to fight him is that of prayer.

Mrs. ex-Gov. Wallace, of Indianapolis, then addressed the convention. Her speech was a happy one; telling the audience that the only intention of our ladies was to give the people of this city an appetite for temperance. Mrs. Wallace will be remembered as a veteran in their grand work. Her language was to the point and was well received by the large audience gathered. The day has come, she said, when we must strike out from the shoulder. The liquor traffic is arrayed to-day against the will of the people. High license is thrown at the people like tufts of grass. God's command is set at naught. Indiana was the first state that put on the badge of the W. C. T. U. for humanity against the liquor traffic. Did we ignore our womanhood in this matter we would be lower than brutes.

With the God of battle on our side, why should we falter? We, as a people, must take on this armor and fight for home, else we will be stamped with failure. This work means the destiny of nations. To whom much is given, much is required. Don't let us forget this. Give the women a chance. Take them away from the class of idiots and children, who bear in this land a state like the mother to the immortal welfare of her children? Gentlemen, we stand or fall together. When have we had a Republican government? She called the present government a "male aristocracy." Allen county is ground down by liquor anarchy. The men have made a failure of the ballot. Law is an educator. Now what will you do for God, home and native land?

This morning Mrs. A. M. Wells, president of the union, read her annual address, a splendid paper, and this afternoon the other officers submitted routine reports.

The program for the W. C. T. U. convention at the Berry street M. E. church this evening is as follows:

Albert Hagerman, the engineer in the employ of the Nickel Plate road who was seriously stabbed by Henry McMullen, a switchman, Sunday, at Stony Island, made a statement concerning the trouble to a notary public. Another Assault. This morning a workman going to the Kerr Murray foundry was struck on the head. Officer Tom Doyle was near by but could not detect the offender. SHOCKING DEATH.

Louis Laubscher, the Civil Engineer and Draughtsman,

Chokes to Death.

Louis Laubscher was choked to death at the supper table in his home, last evening. He sat down with his family and was just as pleasant and full of life as ever, little dreaming that death was so near. In swallowing a piece of sausage the cover was displaced and the moist skin lodged over the trachea or windpipe leading to the lungs. All efforts to dislodge the obstruction or even expel the piece of sausage proved ineffectual and in less time than it takes to relate it, Louis Laubscher was dead. His wife, almost crazed with fright and grief, sent for physicians but they could do nothing more than free the dead man's throat from the fatal obstructions.

Mr. Laubscher was one of the best civil engineers and draughtsmen in the west. He was for years with W. H. Nelson, in the bridge business here, and later entered the service of C. L. Olds & Company, founders and bridge builders. He was urged to be a candidate for city civil engineer at the recent election, but preferred to work on the government building plans and attend to other business that came to him from all parts of the country. Mr. Laubscher devised the scaffold on which Sam McDonald and Charley Butler were executed.

Mr. Laubscher's funeral will take place from his late residence, 149 Griffith street, Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Friends of the family are invited without further notice.

The Bail Question and the Police. Captain Diehl requests us to say that bail will be accepted every time, THE SENTINEL to the contrary notwithstanding. — Gazette.

There has not been a line in THE SENTINEL about the question of bail or its acceptance by the police, who now seek an airing. For years it has been customary for the police to take bail from persons arrested for municipal offenses. Sometimes the bail was in the shape of cold cash, or a watch, or some other article of more or less value. These bail prizes were held to accumulate, and, if not redeemed, the marshal sold them for what he could get. Yesterday Mayor Mulder and Prosecutor Dawson resolved on reforming this business and refused to accept the money tendered by the Occidental gamblers or countenance their oral agreement to plead guilty. The officers were sent out to rearrest the gamblers and get from each one a written and signed agreement stating the amount of money deposited, and authorizing the police officers or some other person to plead guilty, if the accused does not do so himself. The statute does not authorize nor empower the police officers to accept bail, but the mayor and prosecutor are willing to overlook the lack of authority for the improvement noted. When a man gives bail, does not authorize an officer to appear for him or does not appear himself, the money put up will be turned entirely into the school fund as forfeited bail and will not be parceled out among officers as heretofore. This new order of things is now in force.

The Hillegas Libel Suit. There is a new chapter in Supt. Jerry Hillegas' $10,000 libel suit against the Journal stockholders. Spencer & Jenkinson, attorneys for the newspaper people, yesterday served a notice on Mr. Hillegas to appear at their office Monday, June 1, to be examined under oath relative to the cause, from 9 a. m. until 4 p. m. The township trustees met that day between the hours named and Mr. Hillegas interpreted the nation of the Journal people as solely intended to keep him away from the meeting of the trustees. His attorneys will go into court and represent to Judge O'Rourke the nature of the service paper and show its purpose to be to arrive to accomplish Mr. Hillegas' defeat for school superintendent.

Breaking a P. On every hand we see evidences that winter is breaking up and will soon have to yield to advancing spring. It is a most important question among scientific men what causes the general feeling of debility and lameness so prevalent in this region. While some regard it as the result of confinement and inaction others suppose it to be caused by the decay of vegetable and animal debris which has accumulated during the winter. What is especially needed at this time, however, is something to overcome these influences. It is too late to talk about the cause; what is the cure? Thousands of people all over the country who have given Kidney-Wort a faithful trial, are ready to testify that no other remedy is equal to it for cleansing the system, purifying the blood, regulating the bowels and curing all kidney and liver diseases. It is, in fact, the king of all spring medicines.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.—Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferers at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes as "bright as a button." It is very pleasant taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhea, whether arising from teething or other causes. Twenty-five cents a bottle. Carefully.

Question of Temperance.

Be it remembered that Brown's Iron Bitters cannot be bought at the tavern, the gun-mill, or any resort of drunkards. It is not the sort of "bitters" that old toppers want. It is the greatest iron medicine in the world, toning the system, enriching the blood, and invigorating the life. Nobody was ever made to like liquor by using this great family medicine. It cures dyspepsia, indigestion, weakness and malaria.

A CURE.—To all who are suffering from errors and indiscretions of youth, nervous weakness, early decay, loss of manhood, &c., I will send a recipe that will cure you, free of charge. This great remedy was discovered by a missionary in South America. Send self-addressed envelope to Rev. J. T. Lewis, Station D, New York. ang12ed4wly

That Tired Feeling

The warm weather has a debilitating effect, especially upon those who are within doors most of the time. The peevish, yet common, complaint known as "that tired feeling" is the result. This feeling can be entirely overcome by taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, which gives new life and strength to all the functions of the body.

"I could not sleep; had no appetite. I took Hood's Sarsaparilla and soon began to sleep soundly; could get up without that tired and languid feeling; and my appetite improved." R. A. SAWYER, Kent, Ohio.

Strengthen the System

Hood's Sarsaparilla is characterized by three peculiarities: 1st, the combination of medicinal agents; 2d, the proportion; 3d, the process of securing the active medicinal qualities. The result is a medicine of unusual strength, effecting cures hitherto unknown. Send for book containing additional evidence.

"Hood's Sarsaparilla tones up my system, purifies my blood, sharpens my appetite, and seems to make me over." J. L. TOWNSEND, Register of Deeds, Lowell, Mass.

"Hood's Sarsaparilla beats all others, and is worth its weight in gold." J. H. HARRINGTON, 120 Bank Street, New York City.
